

Elevators changed cities. Before they were invented, cities never had very tall buildings. Why not? It's hard to climb more than six stories.